A detachment of E troop of the Fifth United States cavalry, en route from Fort Clark to Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, with about six hundred condemned army horses, camped here last night. The government will sell the horses on their arrival in San Antonio.

Commissioner A. F. Frazier of the Sabinal precinct, Uvalde county, and Road Engineer Louis W. Scheideman were here Tuesday looking over some of Medina county's road machinery and road work. They were favorably impressed with the work being done on Medina county's roads.

E. J. Murray, who has been County Tick Inspector here, has been sent to Medina County and will be stationed at Hondo. Mr. Murray has supervised the excellent work done in Kerr County in eradicating the ticks, and the county has been lifted from quarantine quicker than any county in the State. It is regretted that Mr. Murray should be sent elsewhere, but he is succeeded by an excellent officer and most genial gentleman in J. C. Campbell, who has been stationed at Boerne, and he is also accompanied by his son, J. D. Campbell, who will assist in the work. We extend them a welcome to Kerr County.—Kerryville Mountain Sun.

Mr. Farmer and Ranchman!

I'm now agent for the SUNSHINE SAFETY LAMPS and LANTERNS. The Lanterns are more especially needed on the farm, as it lights up the whole barn yard; and, if hung in the hen house at night, it will increase your eggs 40 per cent, as the hens will think it's daylight, and will lay both day and night.—See?

Call around and let me explain this lamp more thoroughly to you. S. H. WILKINSON.

Tick Eradication Meeting.

Pursuant to the call of County Judge R. J. Noonan, published in last week's paper, there was a large attendance of stockmen at the court house Tuesday afternoon for the tick-eradication meeting. Every section of the county was well represented.

Judge Noonan called the meeting to order and explained the purpose of its call. He then introduced Mr. Eugene Murray, the gentleman who has been sent here by the State Live Stock Sanitary Commission to have charge of the tick-eradication work in Medina county.

Mr. Murray addressed the meeting in a brief way, outlining his plans for the work and answered a great many questions asked of him by the stockmen present.

As a result of the meeting thirty-five vats were leased by their owners to the county. The vats are leased to the county free of charge, the county guaranteeing to return them to the owners in as good condition as when leased, reasonable wear and tear excepted.

The commissioners of the various precincts were authorized to appoint a committee of taxpayers from their own precinct to advise with them and with the superintendent, Mr. Murray, in locating such additional new community vats as may be in need of construction. Where community vats are to be built, the county will furnish the cement and the interested parties will do the construction work. Mr. Murray is in the Divine precinct this week, making a preliminary survey of that territory with Commissioner Robinson and his committee.

Mr. Murray has located his family in Hondo and will be regularly on the job from now until the last fever tick has been given a dip of tick dope.

Officers Elected.

L. Haass, L. R. Neumann, J. G. Heyen, A. B. Brucks, Lou E. Heath and Henry F. Wurzbach. The following were named officers for the coming year: A. B. Brucks president; Henry F. Wurzbach, 1st vice-president; Albert Bilhartz, 2d vice-president; H. E. Haass, secretary-treasurer. Loan or Appraising Committee: W. N. Saathoff, J. G. Heyen and D. W. Short; Alternates to Appraising Committee: Albert Bilhartz, C. H. Hartman and Lyman Morris. There are 128 members in the local organization, and they have borrowed a total of $485,980. The Houston Federal Farm Bank reports 16,930 Texas farmers as having borrowed a total of $50,694,091 from that institution.

Drilling Stopped.

The editor of this paper is in receipt of the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

YANCEY, TEXAS, Jan. 18, 1922.

You can announce to your readers that the Ewell Nalle Oil Company is preparing to cease drilling on their J. P. Nixon No. 1 on account of the funds set aside for this work being exhausted.

This is a log well in which there has been lots of rat-holing and coring and reaming. Two oil and one gas stratas were passed through.

Lots of time was consumed in trying to get production from the best oil showing. This well is now below 1,500 feet, in soft rock.

It was financed by some of the foremost business and professional men of Austin, Texas, with Dr. F. P. McLaughlin as chief promoter, and Mr. Ewell Nalle as trustee.

An effort will be made to test the gas strata.

The results of this well will justify another hole, in the opinion of oil men and the driller.

Is This Your Experience?

Many Hondo People Are Afflicted With Annoying Kidney Ills.

Are you bothered with too frequent action of the kidneys? Are the secretions highly colored—do they contain sediment—burn and scald in voiding?
These are all signs of kidney sickness and should not be neglected. Hondo people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills
If your back aches and your kidneys are weak you will find no better recommended remedy. Ask your neighbor!
Joseph Mechler, Hondo, says: "I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for I know they are good. I was taken with a severe backache and had sort of a dull pain in my kidneys day and night. When I would stoop over I could hardly raise up again. My kidneys didn't act right and I had to get up at nights on this account. A friend told me about Doan's kidney Pills so I used them and was helped from the first. Two boxes of Doan's made my back as strong as iron and made my kidneys act like clock work."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Mechler had. Foster-Milburn Co.,

Railway Wages and Rates.

(Published by Request.)

Despite the fact that the Transportation Act specifically names the cost of living as the first factor to be considered in determining fair wage scales, the average hourly earnings of railway employees are now about 121 per cent greater than in 1916, whereas the cost of living is but 53 per cent above the 1916 level. This disparity, together with an insistent demand for lower freight rates and passenger rates and a downward readjustment of wages in other industries, has forced the railroads to come before the Railroad Labor Board with requests for further wage reductions.

In 1916 the average hourly earnings of railway employees who are paid on an hourly basis—approximately 90 per cent of the total number of employees—were 27.8 cents. In 1917 the establishment of the 8 hour day and increase in traffic due to war time demands brought the average hourly earnings up to 31.8 cents. In 1918 the government operation of the railroads brought with it large and frequent increases in wages, boosting the average earnings in that year to 46 cents per hour. More increases in wages under government control in 1919 raised the average earnings to 55.4 cents per hour. On March 1st, 1920, federal control ended, leaving as a legacy restrictive and wasteful national agreements governing the working conditions of several large classes of employees and an insistent demand by all groups of employees for still further wage advances. As a result, in July 1920, the Labor Board awarded the greatest single wage increase ever granted to any group of employees and at the same time continued the national agreements indefinitely.

After this award went into effect the average hourly earnings ran at the rate of 70.4 cents. Then came the business depression of 1921, the consequent failure of higher freight and passenger rates to produce the revenue expected and a decided decline in the cost of living and in the wages paid in other industries. Finally in July 1921 the Labor Board ordered a reduction in wages estimated at 12½ per cent and bringing the average hourly earnings down to 61.5 cents the present level, still 124 per cent above the 1916 earnings. That this estimate is correct is shown by the fact that in July and August, the first months in which the lower rates were in effect, the average hourly earnings were 61.9 and 61 cents respectively. Since most of the increases which have taken effect were granted largely on the grounds that the cost of living necessitated higher wages, it is but fair, now that the living cost has dropped, to reduce wages on the same grounds.

The effect of these developments on the railroads as a whole is even more important from the standpoint of the public. The annual payroll in 1916 included 1,641,097 employees and amounted to $1,468,576,394. In 1920 the annual payroll included 2,031,927 employees, an increase of 23 percent necessitated mainly by the establishment of the eight hour day and continuation of the restrictive rules of the national agreements. After the July, 1920, increase, it ran at the rate of $3,912,922,219, an increase of 166 per cent over 1916. Now, after the 12½ per cent wage cut of July 1921, under normal traffic conditions, with the same number of employees as in 1920, it would run at the rate of $3,423,868,192, or still 183 per cent above the 1916 mark.

The annual payroll constitutes almost two thirds of the total operating expenses. The study of these figures with this in mind will explain why the railroads have maintained that further rate reductions are impossible until labor costs are re-adjusted so that operating expenses bear a proper relationship with revenues. Furthermore, these figures clearly show that wage cuts can now be made without injustice to railway employees as a class and without waiving the most important factor which Congress agreed should govern the fixing of just and reasonable wage scales. It is only through an equitable downward adjustment of wage levels that railroad rates can be lowered to the point demanded by the agricultural and other interests of the country.

JUDGE: "Now, I don't expect to see you here again, Rufus."

RUFUS: "Not see me here again, Mr. Judge? Why yo' all aint goin' to resign you' job, is yo', Judge?"—Public News.

Ethel: "What's the matter, you look unhappy?"
Edith: "Oh, such hard luck, I tried Dick for alimony, and to go and fall in love with him now I know it will just break my heart to divorce him."

Principal: "I've got a job for you, I want it, yet I wouldn't take it and dollars for it."
Pupil: "What is it?"
Principal: "My bald head."
Riddle.

Boy: "How often do you kill a man?"
Conductor: "Just once."

THE "OLD RELIABLE" THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

White Haired Alabama Lady Says She Has Seen Medicine and Go But The "Old Reliable" Thedford's Black-Draught Came and Stayed.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Thedford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said: "I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work."
"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals. Sour stomach, sick headache can be relieved by Black-Draught. It aids digestion, assists the liver in throwing off its burden. I am glad to recommend Thedford's Black-Draught, and do, to my neighbors."
Thedford's Black-Draught is a household remedy with over seventy years of successful use. Every one occasionally needs it to help cleanse the system of impurities. Try Black-Draught. Insist on Thedford's, the genuine. At all druggists.

Announcement.

Sunday's San Antonio Express carried the following announcement:

Judge and Mrs. Edmond de Montel of Hondo announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Edith O. Williamson, to Eugene Vincent Behan, captain United States Army, stationed at Camp Travis, the marriage having been performed by Rev. Mr. Brand of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Behan is well known in the city, where she has spent much time and is the sister of Elmer de Montel, also well known. Mrs. Elmer de Montel is at present the guest of her mother, Mrs. John H. James. Mrs. Behan spent the past winter in San Antonio as the guest of Mrs. J. E. Larkin.

R. H. Hudspeth returned last Saturday from a business trip to Terrell and other points in the eastern part of the state, and is convinced that no section has any advantages over old Medina.
While in the Terrell section there is a great deal of unsold cotton, and Mr.
Hudspeth says it is the prettiest cotton he ever saw, the cost of production was so great that it cannot be sold now only at loss at the present price, and as a result the cry of hard times is heard. He visited his old home in Brazos county and says the September floods has left the Brazos farmers in a deplorable condition. Mr.
Hudspeth is convinced that he lives in the Lord's favored section.

Painter Herman Reyman returned to his home in San Antonio Friday.

Hon. G. C. Morris was here from Devine Tuesday on professional business.

F. S. Cockrell is serving Uncle Sam

G. M. Wilson has moved the Hondo Cafe from the Cameron building to

WOULD REVIVE OLD CUSTOM

New England Newspaper Points Out Good Home Influence in Practice of Family Singing.

"Why," asks a contemporary writer, "do so few parents nowadays sing either to or with their children?" She goes on to urge a revival of this fine old custom.

Perhaps, as she suggests, the phonograph, with its music-making facilities, or the automobile and the movie forever dragging people from their homes, or jazz with its exotic and difficult cadences, have driven the old sweet airs and the habit of family singing from the American homes.

Old hymns of noble verse and nobler music, beautiful old ballads in settings of simple but perfect melody, are a valuable part of the equipment of any life and memory. Every little while new music of real merit is produced which should be added to the collection as pearls are added to a string.

Homes in which such songs are sung, homes in which fathers and mothers sing such songs first to and then with their children, are among the greatest influences of civilization. More important than the songs or the singing is the habit instilled in early life of finding pleasure in simple family association within the walls of home itself.—Concord Monitor.

Canvasser—I'd like to see the lady of the house.

Maid—Sorry, but she's engaged.

Canvasser—That's all right. I don't run a matrimonial agency.

LITERALLY AS THE BIRDS.

A British inventor stated the other day that flying success will come either with what he termed "flappers"—which are nothing more or less than wings manipulated by the arms—or by helicopter screws which will be attached above the flyer's shoulders and turned through a geared shaft by either the hands or feet, much in the same way as we pedal a bicycle.

These curious machines have been tested at Rochester, in Kent, and at Luton, and one enthusiast claims to have lifted himself a considerable distance from the ground with the aid of arm wings.

An authority on aviation said: "There is no reason why a man should not be able to fly by human power until he gets tired."

HIDING AN EYESORE.

To hide the unsightly appearance of a building under construction, a Los Angeles architect devised the unique idea of building an ornamental fence around the entire structure that was entirely out of the ordinary. The outline of the fence in place was built to resemble the roofs of California bungalows and the painter completed the bungalow with his brush, working in the windows, pillars, vines and trees and people in the windows. Parts of the fence were also used for advertising, with a lot of clever art work, the whole scheme being to make a beauty spot out of what otherwise would have been a neighborhood eyesore.

"WATER TENNIS" POPULAR.

A new sport now rapidly gaining favor on the Pacific coast is known as "water tennis," says Popular Mechanics Magazine. It is really an adaptation of lawn tennis to the swimming pool, and is described as a great hot weather diversion. When splashing about after the rubber ball in a shallow pond protected from the sun by surrounding foliage, all the exercise and sport of the dry land game are derived, without the annoying heat and perspiration.

Traveling in the West.

From a letter received recently by Mrs. Emmet Williford from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Everett Williford, of San Antonio, Texas, we are permitted to quote the following paragraphs. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williford visited in Jonesboro last summer before turning their faces westward. They were accompanied by the little boy referred to as Scott.

"We left Chicago on a Friday at 5:30 p. m., so didn't see any of Iowa as we passed through there at night. Nebraska is a sorry looking state. Even the Platte river hasn't the distinction of banks. It just drags over the flat ground in the most listless manner imaginable—acts as though it had malaria. In the evening, while still in Nebraska, a cold, high wind came up. It was like a Texas norther. I thought 'Aha, we are nearing the cool mountains,' and before reaching Denver I carefully clothed myself and Scott in heavy duds. Well, the night air was cool—I am using the word cool very mildly—and we soon found heavy clothes a burden. Denver was hot as San Antonio but without our Gulf breeze.

"The morning after our arrival we attended services at the First Baptist church. In the afternoon Dick secured a car and we ascended Lookout Mountain. The trip up was the last word in thrills. A splendid road, built by the state, is blasted out of the mountain and winds around until the summit, 1700 feet above Denver, is reached. Going up we were on the outside of the road and could look over the edge and down hundreds of feet. In some of the places considered especially perilous heavy railing was placed along the outer edge. The rest of the way two steel cables were run through cement posts, but in some places there were several knocked down and not knowing what had done it, or if what had done it had gone over the precipice, didn't relieve the tenseness of our feelings any. On the summit is Buffalo Bill's grave, also a museum. We crossed the top of the mountain and returned to the city down the Bear Creek Canon road. It was not so perilous, but beautiful to a superlative degree. And Bear creek rushed and gurgled and sang all the way down with us.

"There is no doubt about the atmosphere of Denver being dry. We couldn't locate a wash woman, and dared not send our clothes to the laundry as each day we expected to leave at 1:30 p. m. I didn't want to pack so many soiled clothes among the clean ones, so in desperation I washed them myself. Dick was agast. He was sure the clothes wouldn't get dry. Undaunted by his prediction, I hung up my wash, got it on the line about 10 p. m. An extra long, heavy cord that several packages were tied together with did good service as a clothes line. At 2 o'clock in the morning I slipped out of bed to feel of my wash. Every piece was dry!

"We had the most delicious cherry pie in Denver. We ordered it for every meal, until the proprietor got so he would save ours if the supply ran low. I may forget Denver, but Lookout Mountain and the cherry pie, never.

"We left Denver at 1:30 p. m. Dick had phoned for reservations, but upon being told there were no lower berths he wouldn't take uppers, hoping we might get a lower at the last minute. We waited as long as we dared, then boarded the train still hoping we could get one. The chair car was crowded and the only seats available were the hottest and most uncomfortable in the car. After a long, miserable wait the conductor found he could give us lower 5. Joyfully we hiked back to the sleeper where we received a distinct shock when we found that upper 5 was to be occupied by a Chinaman and that we had to share our seat with him. Dick hurried back to the conductor with our tale of woe, and we were transferred to lower 6. A nice young fellow had upper 6 and he exchanged with Dick. All's well that ends well.

"We reached Salt Lake City about 8:45 a. m., and Dick left Scott and me in the waiting room while he went up stairs to inquire for Luke Campbell. He was told that Luke lived about four blocks from the station, so without stopping to tell me Dick started out to walk those four blocks. He was gone 45 minutes, and I was becoming really alarmed when fortunately he reappeared. The blocks in Salt Lake City are 700 feet long. Dick said he thought he would never get there. Luke brought him back in his car. As we were driving back to Luke's home, Dick asked me if I knew that a man could have more than one wife there. I told him yes, that I had begun to think he had gone to find another one for himself.

"As soon as Mrs. Campbell was ready they took us all over the city in their Oldsmobile. We went through the capitol, and took some pictures of the building and grounds. Salt Lake City has no streets; they are all boulevards and wonderfully clean. Some of them run up the side of a mountain and end in an impressive building. The main building of the University crosses the end of one street and across another is the capitol. The effect is wonderfully attractive. We took a snapshot of the Temple. We saw the Lion House where Brigham Young kept his wives. That truly is the name of the place. Mrs. Campbell showed me two houses in adjoining lots belonging to the Mrs. Smith numbers one and two. I told Dick it would never do to put number two that close to me—there'd be something doing. We stayed at The Utah, a beautiful hotel, that night. Mrs. Campbell wanted to make room for us in their apartment but we wouldn't agree to such an imposition. Never have I enjoyed greater hospitality than that extended by Luke and his charming wife. I hope we will be able to return the courtesy some day.

"We left the following day at 1:40. Our train ran through one end of Great Salt Lake, and after crossing it we ran through mines of salt beds. The way the salt in these beds is softened, double walls about a foot high are built around immense squares, and the space between the walls is packed with earth. The enclosures are flooded, and when the water has evaporated the salt can be shoveled into wagons. There were salt factories all along the way.

"We got up at 4 o'clock the next morning to get a seat on the observation platform through Feather River Canon. As for describing that part of our trip, I'll have to say as 'Wilder Green' said, and with far more sincerity, 'Here I'm dumb.' It is too gloriously, majestically beautiful for any description to be adequate, and no picture can do it justice.

"It was about 6 o'clock Saturday evening that we arrived at San Francisco. We planned to attend services at some Baptist church the next morning, but when Dick phoned Birdie Rhoades she insisted we spend the day with them in Oakland. We joined them at the Presbyterian church and after services went home with them. After dinner they took us car riding. We drove through Oakland and over a range of mountains—a wonderful drive—back through Oakland and to Berkeley where we drove through the University grounds and visited the Greek theater. Finally they left us at the home of the Jeannettes where we had a pleasant visit. It was a delightful day spent with delightful people.

"The next day we spent in trying to see Frisco. We were in a sight-seeing bus, and rode in a cable car just for the experience as I had never seen one before. We couldn't go through Chinatown as the trip is at night and Scott was too sleepy.

"We left Frisco that night and arrived at Los Angeles at noon the next day. We took the Coast route so every mile to Los Angeles was delightful. Monrovia is 17 miles from Los Angeles, so when Dick phoned Glen (Willard) he insisted upon coming after us. Glenn and Iva soon arrived in their Chandler, and for three weeks we had so many and such varied pleasures it is hard to describe and do justice to them. We visited in the homes of Leslie (Willard), Fred and Helen Bacon, and Glenn, and were royally welcomed. We enjoyed the delicious oranges at the Bacons picked from trees in their yard. Helen packed a lot for us to bring home with us, Rose added California apples and Iva fresh English walnuts, so we are still enjoying the fruits of our visit.

"We drove through avenues of palm and pepper trees. The latter have foliage like our mesquite, but instead of beans they bear long bunches of bright red berries and are very decorative. We drove between miles of orange and lemon groves and English walnut orchards and never left the asphalt. Glenn, who is familiar with the country and is an expert driver, took us to the beaches—Venice, Ocean Park, Santa Monica, San Pedro, Long Beach and Redondo Beach. We had Mrs. Kroger with us at Redondo. We went to Catalina Island and rode in the glass bottom boat. The water was between 35 and 40 feet deep, and the submarine gardens were intensely interesting. We saw gold perch and many other kinds of fish swimming at the bottom of the ocean.

"We enjoyed everything in California but the climate. The fogs were awful. They were cold and penetrating, and no matter how heavy our clothes we felt like we were clad in paper. And when the sun shines it is too hot.

We saw lots of beautiful scenery on our trip, but agreed that none of it dimmed the beauty of Southern Illinois."—The Jonesboro Gazette, Jonesboro, Illinois.

The little boy referred to in the above as Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Cockrell of this place, who accompanied the Willifords on their trip last summer.—Ed.

The School, The Community, and The State.

From The Javelina.

Every community should be and usually is proud of its school. If it is not something is wrong. No institution in community or state occupies a position more vitally related to the life and advancement of both community and state. To discuss this point at great length would be to tire the reader, since it has been so well established in our past experience.

And why should not every community be vitally interested in schools, since from them are to come the men and the women who are to do the community's work and the world's work tomorrow? Why should parents not be interested, since the most priceless heritage they can leave to a child is a mind well trained, a body strong and healthy, and a heart full of purpose to do right and play the game fair? Why should the State not be vitally interested in the school when from the school must come the citizens of tomorrow, out of it comes our national ideals, either good or bad, out of it will come either Bolshevism or clear and noble ideals of social responsibilities?

Is the school justly criticized for being impractical and of failing to function in the most complete way in the life of the child? Then let the people of the community and the state put their brains to work to correct these evils. No task is more worth while.

Although it is part of the school's task to prepare for business success, its primary function is to develop the character and help the child to form such habits of thought and action that it can later build successfully on the foundation laid in the public school.

Next issue we shall discuss some of the things being done in our own school to meet these issues.

WORTH RECORDING

Why should people be amusement mad? Well, what else is more interesting?

Women deserve all the poets said of them, and lots of things they left unsaid. The fact that riches have wings does not help a man to feather his own nest.

Try to be genial and be careful not to go beyond the point where it looks natural. It may be said that one is no more responsible for his genius than for his beauty.

It takes a whole week's planning to make sure of the enjoyment of a half holiday. If the fool could see himself as others see him his life would be one continuous laugh.

Any young man who can save $1,000 will soon show that he can save a great deal more.

A leader of public thought attracts attention, though a follower of it may make more money.

Young people complain—and yet they're young. They don't know how much that's worth.

Philosophers don't have to prove anything. They're satisfied if they keep you speculating.

No gossip would make a good reporter, because a gossip finds out so much that can't be printed.

Money may not make the man, but a little thing like that doesn't worry the man who makes the money.
